

Our Past

Friends of Historic Preservation (FHP) was organized in 1975 as Friends of Old Brick. This broad-based group initially came together over one single but important historic landmark: Iowa City's oldest surviving church, the First Presbyterian Church. Constructed between 1856 and 1865, this building came to be known as "Old Brick." It's impending demolition sparked a movement in Iowa City that has become a national model for community-based preservation action.

In 2007, FHP was recognized by the national Trust for Historic Preservation with a national Preservation Honor Award for the massive recovery effort made to protect the historic fabric of the community after the 2006 Tornado. In years prior, Friends invested in the community with both volunteer labor and funds to restore Iowa City's Englert Theatre, purchased endangered homes in historic neighborhoods to restore and return to the community as single family residences, and many times stood with other citizens and groups to save endangered structures.

Our Present

Advocacy

FHP supports the efforts of the Iowa City Historic Preservation Commission. We also actively encourage the City Council, the University of Iowa and other government bodies to enact policies, procedures and guidelines that protect historic properties and neighborhoods. FHP advocates for:

- ◆ Designation of local historic and conservation districts.
- ◆ Designation of local landmarks.
- ◆ Listing of landmarks and historic districts on the National Register of Historic Places.
- ◆ Downzoning of older neighborhoods.
- ◆ Conducting historic and architectural surveys of older neighborhoods.
- ◆ Support for the UniverCity project.
- ◆ Construction of compatible infill, additions and other alterations that affect historic buildings in neighborhoods.

Education

FHP is dedicated to fostering a greater appreciation of Iowa City's historic resources and a better understanding of historic buildings, their community value, maintenance, and rehabilitation. Preservation education efforts include:

- ◆ Conducting workshops on topics such as painting, winterizing your, home greening your home, and historic tax credits.
- ◆ Partnering with FEMA and the University of Iowa to present a symposium on historic preservation and disaster recovery.
- ◆ Offering tours of historic buildings and adaptive spaces.
- ◆ Co-sponsoring the annual Historic Preservation Awards.
- ◆ Assistance in grant and design review applications.
- ◆ Donation of educational material to libraries.
- ◆ Preservation Community and Information via the internet at www.ic-fhp.org and facebook.

Rehabilitation

Friends has supported the move and restoration of the Wetherby Cottage as well as the rehabilitation of a number of historic structures in Iowa City. Year round, Friends operates the Salvage Barn of architectural and historic building parts. The Barn provides a cost effective way for owners of older buildings to repair and restore structures in accordance with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards.

The Salvage Barn

Architectural Salvage Warehouse

Year-round, FHP operates the Salvage Barn of architectural and historic building items that are at least 50 years old and no longer are sold commercially. The Salvage Barn serves as a centralized source for the owners of older homes or buildings to find historically appropriate materials for the repair and restoration of their property. In addition, FHP mission helps directly diverts priceless material that may otherwise end up in the landfill.

THE SALVAGE BARN HAS MOVED!
